Something new for a pair of on screen veterans: The Hollywood Reporter notes Louise Fletcher and Cicely Tyson have begun work this week on a feature called Fat Rose and Squeaky for Etc...Group Productions.

The new part is the format: The film is being shot in High Definition video rather than film. The movie revolves around the two lead character's friendship.

Fletcher is an Oscar winner for her turn in One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest amid countless other roles. Tyson is a three-time Emmy winner and was nominated for an Oscar for Best Actress for her work in Souder.

The High Def feature is lensing right now in San Jose, Calif.
